AFFAIRS IN PORTO RICO.

The Natives Take No Pains to Conceal Their Dislike for Military Rule.

YET MAKE NO SHOW OF RESISTANCE.

Gen. Henry Takes Their Side of a Controversy and Revokes an Order Issued by Gen. Fred Grant—Gen. Henry's Suggestions Readily Responded to and Changes for the Better Apparent.

San Juan de Porto Rico, Jan. 27.—Although the Porto Ricans do not offer the least resistance to the military administration they make no secret of the fact that they do not desire its continuance. It is not that they object to the Americanization of the island, but they earnestly wish for civil government in some reasonable and practicable form. Under the old Spanish regime, they will tell you, they enjoyed a higher degree of freedom than they do now, although they seize with enthusiasm every opportunity for putting themselves in touch with the institutions and demands of the new government, they feel a pride in working out their political salvation as a free people and not as a subjugated one. They love liberty, and the intelligent element is convinced that under a civil administration the country will swiftly adapt itself to the better conditions offered by the United States.

The Military Government. The military government is thorough and active. The whole island is effectively patrolled, and quiet and order prevails in every quarter. But the Porto Ricans sometimes complain that the military authorities interfere with the civil authorities without adequate reason. Quite frequently of late protests have been lodged at headquarters against the military officers who have been described as intruders by United States officers in municipal affairs, not falling within the scope of their duties.

Unwarranted Military Dictation. As already briefly stated, the mayor and city council of San Juan, who started last week—in fact almost rebelled—at what they considered and called an "unwarranted military dictation."

An enterprising Porto Rican, just returned from the United States, has obtained permission from the council to place small business signs on lamp posts around the plaza. The signs were neat enough, but they offended the sight of many of the Americans, who complained to Gen. Grant, military commander of the district of San Juan. Gen. Grant sent a peremptory summons to the council to cancel the contract and to remove the signs.

Porto Rican pride could not endure this. The councilors regarded the order as a last straw, and tendered their resignations to Gov. Henry, the governor of Porto Rico. There was no bad feelings. The councilors merely said that they enjoyed so little real authority they preferred to give up their positions.

Gen. Henry Took Their View of the Matter. Gen. Henry, however, took their view of the matter, and assured them that there would be no further cause for complaint on the score of military coercion, and he promptly issued an order directing the secretary of state to inform the alcaldes of towns that "there is no authority for any officer or soldier to enter council meetings or to interfere with or dictate their proceedings."

Patience and Good Nature. Every suggestion of Gen. Henry has been responded to with alacrity, and as a result there is a marvelous change in the order of things. Economies have been effected in the various departments, at the expense of the army, and of satellites and the formality dear to the subjects of the kings. The people have accepted with good nature the new sanitary regulations, although these have wonderfully disturbed the unclean and crowded tenements that had been regarded with complacency, and as a crowning test of popular patience, they put up with the postal service, which is inexpressibly worse than anything they were ever subjected to before by the Spaniards.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from La Grippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for La Grippe we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It cures La Grippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by St. Bernard Drugstore, Earlington; Ben T. Robinson, Mornings Gap; George King, St. Charles.

FIFTY-FIFTH CONGRESS.

(Second Session.)

In the senate, on the 26th, Mr. Mallory (dem.) delivered a constitutional argument in favor of the Vest resolution, announced some time ago, providing for the pensioning of ex-confederate soldiers, accompanied by a speech, in which he declared the south was right and history should be recorded. In the house the day was devoted to the reorganization and increase of the regular army and passed without notable incident.

In the senate on the 27th, Mr. T. C. Platt (N. Y.) made a brief, but notable speech in favor of the ratification of the treaty of peace. The session bill, being the second of the general appropriation measures, was passed. A prolonged executive session was held, and before adjournment, eulogies were pronounced on the late Representative Cook, of Illinois, whose passing was announced by Senators Culom, Allison, Wellington and Mason.

In the house the bill to reorganize the army occupied almost the entire session, and so hot was the opposition to the bill as formulated that Chairman Hall announced on the floor that the committee would amend the bill to a reduction of the proposed number of enlisted men to 40,000, with discretion in the president to increase it to 100,000.

In the senate, on the 28th, several bills of minor importance were passed. The dispute, and consular bill was called up, but before its reading the senate took adjournment. The consular and diplomatic measures, passed. A bill appropriating $1,750,000 to the house, passed. In the bill as passed by the house, $1,750,000 was appropriated to the Missouri river at Lexington, Mo. Enclaves of the late Representative Simpkins, of Massachusetts, were delivered after two days.

In the senate, on the 30th, an effort on the part of Mr. Allison to obtain consideration of the Indian appropriation bill, precipitated a running debate which occupied the entire session. When the bill was taken up, it was found that the measure had been amended by the house, and the senate was obliged to accept the amendments. The bill was passed.

The vessel made the trip in 75 hours and 25 minutes.

GEN. GOMEZ HAS WHEELS.

The Cuban General Demands Nearly Sixty Millions of Dollars From the United States.

HE WON'T DISBAND UNTIL HE GETS IT.

Full Pay for Himself as Lieutenant-General, Twenty Major-Generals and About Two Hundred Brigadiers, and All the Rest of His Officers and Army Since the Insurrection Began.

New York, Feb. 1.—A special to the Tribune from Washington says: Maximo Gomez, the Cuban insurgent general, has demanded nearly $60,000,000 from the United States, and refuses to disband his "army" until the money is paid. He has repudiated the arrangement made by his agents with the state of Washington with authority from Gomez to provide for the return of the Cubans to their peaceful pursuits, and whose work was barely accomplished before his sudden death on December 11.

It was then agreed that the United States, in order to secure the prompt resumption of labor on the plantations of the island with a view of promoting the speedy revival of prosperity and settled conditions, should distribute about $30,000,000 among the 30,000 said to be still under arms, in the ratio of $100 a man, the officers in proportion to their rank to receive a greater amount, the ordinary enlisted men to be discharged with sums less than $50, depending on the length of service and other considerations. For over a month the pay corps of the army has been making ready to carry out this arrangement, the national defense fund being available for the purpose.

LISTS WERE PREPARED.

Accurate lists of the soldiers entitled to compensation had to be prepared and other formalities gone through. It was intended that the Cubans, at the proper time, should apply at established American garrisons in the various provinces where, on laying down their arms and presenting the proper credentials, they were to receive their quota of the allotment from the pay officers at the stations. In the meantime Gen. Brooke and his chief subordinate, General Brooke, gave employment, mostly of a permanent character, to large numbers of Cubans, in order to reduce the number to give the inhabitants opportunity to begin governing themselves.

GOMEZ BLOCKS THE SCHEME.

Gomez has come out against this scheme, which was operating satisfactorily to most Cubans, and has struck for greater stakes. It is officially known here that he is endeavoring to discuss Cuban independence with the United States, and is urging all the natives of every grade to stay with him in the field until the United States is compelled to accede to his "terms of disbandment." Gomez alleges that his army consists of 40,000 men, and he insists that most of them shall be paid for three years' service at the rates that prevail in the United States army. He fixes the date of the Cuban declaration of independence, February 24, 1895, as the beginning of the period for which himself and his forces are to be remunerated, and for himself, with the rank of lieutenant-general, he will be satisfied with $11,000 annually, the American rate for that grade.

AN ARMY OF GENERALS.

Gomez also has about 20 major generals, for each of whom he wants $7,500 annually, and his "army" is equipped with nearly 200 brigadiers, each rated according to the United States army at $5,000 annually. This aggregates the nice little sum of $2,783,000 for generals alone; then there are colonels, lieutenant-colonels and majors, whose numbers run into the thousands. The private does not amount to much, for he is not blessed by even the slightest change of expression.

THE EAGAN COURT-MARTIAL.

The Case Closed, the Verdict Made Up and Placed in the Hands of the Reviewing Officers.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The case of Commissary-General Charles P. Eagan, charged with conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, and with conduct tending to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, is now in the hands of the reviewing authorities.

Consumed Less than Eight Hours.

The trial had lasted three days, and consumed less than eight hours of actual sitting. A session behind closed doors of an hour or so sufficed for the court to reach a conclusion and embody it in a report.

What the verdict was is altogether a matter of speculation and, officially, at least, will not be made public, the trial board military regulations requiring that its findings shall go through prescribed channels and be kept secret until action be had and promulgated by the proper reviewing authorities.

Ladies in the Audience.

The attendance at the court-martial was much larger than at any other time since the trial began, and among the spectators was a score or more of ladies. Several of them were friends of Gen. Eagan's daughter, who was called as a witness, while others were attracted by curiosity.

The testimony at the closing session of the court was directed largely to establish the fact that the general had lost his mental balance as a result of the charges made against him by Gen. Miles.

Changed Condition of the General.

His daughter and her husband told of the general's changed condition and maintained that they had great fears he might at any time kill his accuser.

Mr. McKee, a life-long friend, stated that at times he believed him actually insane.

The facts in this connection were brought out strongly by Mr. Worthington, in his efforts to show the general's insanity, which was wholly irresponsible.

"Crucified by Gen. Miles."

A dramatic incident of the trial was the testimony of Gen. Miles' daughter, in which she described her father's appearance on the day he had first read Gen. Miles' statement. Standing in the door of his house with the newspaper containing the evidence in his hand, he had exclaimed wildly: "I have been crucified by Gen. Miles." Gave no Hint of What Was Passing Through Their Minds.

SYLVANITE ORE THREE INCHES THICK.

It is Nearly Solid Gold—Some of it Would Run Half a Million Dollars to the Ton—The Body of Ore Increases in Value as the Miners Advance—Fabulous Riches in Sight.

Denver, Col., Jan. 31.—A special to the News from Cripple Creek, Col., says of the recent strike is Isabella ground:

"Your correspondent saw chunks of sylvanite that were three inches thick and solid metal, and chunks of the oxidized ore of the same width that he whittled with his pocketknife. No assays have been made on the rock; it is not necessary, but pieces of the free gold ore, if ore it can be called, at all, run over $500,000 per ton. The Molle Gilson never produced any ore that carried more ounces in silver per ton than this Isabella ore does in gold. With every hour's work the streak is lengthening and widening."

"Joining this metallic body there is six feet of quartz that will run from $1,000 to $5,000 per ton."

"Manager Kilburn said to your correspondent:

"I do not like to say anything that will excite the people any more than they are at present. The metallic ore body has doubled in size both ways since yesterday morning. Some of the pieces of ore are 80 per cent. gold. I never saw such mineral, and I do not believe that its like was ever mined in this or any other camp in the world. We have had no assays taken on the rock. But a ton of it could be picked out that would run anywhere from $50,000 to $200,000 per ton."

"Armed guards are watching the property. The strike was made in the new ore body at a depth of 550 feet below the surface. The chute has been cut at the seventh level 200 feet above, and also at the fifth. At the latter place an assay was obtained in the breast of the drift, Sunday on the first of ore that was better than $1,000 per ton. There is at least blocked out in the one level between the ninth and seventh levels $5,000, 000 worth of ore."

A SUCCESSFUL GAMBLE.

Walter Orthwein Closes Up Deals on 'Change at St. Louis Which Netted Him $67,000.

St. Louis, Jan. 31.—Walter Orthwein, 27 years old, a son of William D. Orthwein, the grain exporter, on Saturday brought to a successful close a series of remarkable speculative deals on 'change, which made him a rich man in a little over 60 days. About ten weeks ago the young speculator began to plunge in stocks. The market came down, and the rest was easy.

During the time he was plunging in the market, it is said, the young man's transactions involved hundreds of thousands of dollars, and every cent he had to his name was at stake. He was "game" throughout, and on Saturday he cleaned up all his deals, got his money and announced his intention to take an extended trip and remain out of the market until another favorable opportunity presented for rapid money-making.

The amount of money said to have been turned over to Orthwein, on Saturday, as his profits on his deals, was $67,000. It has been known for several days that he was ahead of the market, but not until he told a friend was the extent of his dealings made known. He is also credited with having made $25,000 on wheat when Letter went down.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1899.

A serious shower does not soak in so well as a steady rain. A double-column advertisement once a year is not so good as a half-inch fifty-two times a year.—Newspaperdom.

WESTERN Tennessee potato-growers received from $2.30 to $2.50 a barrel for their first crop and the second crop brings $1.90 a bushel. Rather a good year for potatoes.

The best valentine, of which the Madisonville people could dream, will be the success of the proposed graded school measure at the election to be held in that town on February 14.

It is claimed that the limestone soil of Kentucky would produce flax successfully and that there is a margin of from $30 to $40 net per acre of profit in raising flax under favorable circumstances.

THE Missourians want the ashes of Daniel Boone and his wife, now reposing in the cemetery at Frankfort. We can't spare 'em. Let not any of the glory and chivalry of Kentucky's past leave our borders.

WHEAT reached a price of eighty cents a bushel during the past week. Tobacco has been at a fine figure and is getting better. Corn is advancing, and cotton is also rising in price. Truly we are in the midst of an era of prosperity, and the farmer is getting a share.

THE question of pensions in the navy for deaths in battle during the late war is a simple one easily disposed of. The widow of Chief Yeoman George H. Ellis, the only man in our navy killed at Santiago in the annihilation of Cervera's fleet, has been granted a pension.

MORE than two hundred million bushels of corn were exported from the United States during the year 1898. It is the first time corn has reached the 200-million line in exports for any year. The king of cereals is gaining in foreign favor and the American farmer is at much to the better.

A PROMINENT Democrat of Hopkins county, who generally can see from which direction political breezes blow, said the other day that Col. Morris K. Belknap would be the next Republican nominee for Governor of Kentucky and that the race would be between Belknap and Hardin. And it seems these days as if this prominent D. is not lonesome in this belief.

THE total value of agricultural exports from the United States for the year 1898 is estimated at $850,000,000, exceeding the previous year by $20,000,000. This is enormous but the exports of wheat, corn and other products continue at advanced prices, and as an authority says of the foreign purchasers, "they continue to buy at rising prices because they have to buy our products."

IT begins to look as if Dempsey's chances for nomination for the office of Railroad Commissioner to succeed himself are dead easy. At any rate he now has the lead of his only opponent, Col. Tom Corbitt, who wears his long hair in curls, surmounted by a big Western hat, a la Indian Territory, whence he has recently come from a very lucrative government position, to which he was appointed by President Cleveland.

ONCE again is the State of Delaware and the Republican party in that state disgraced by the man Addicks, who insists on being made United States Senator. Suck brazen cheek as Addicks shows would shame a Kentucky mule—a rich nobody who thinks to buy himself honor. Any desire for purity and decency in politics would lead the real Republicans in the Delaware legislature to join with the Democrats and re-elect Senator Gray.

W. S. MILLER, JR., Manager of the popular Willard Hotel, of Louisville, is addressing many friends and probable patrons announcing the facts that the hotel "has been re-leased for a long term of years" and that a large outlay is being made in repairs and furnishings, including a thousand yards of velvet carpet, a number of brass and enameled beds and a new electric engine. When this is done the Willard and its manager will become more popular than ever with Kentuckians.

IT is well to be right before you go ahead, but it does look as if some of our Madisonville friends require a deal of satisfying along the lines of legal technicality in reference to whether or not that town shall have better schools. It is now said that if the advocates of better schools win at the Valentine Day election, a test case will be taken to the Court of Appeals before anything else is done, in order to see if everything is legal in connection with the proceedings. The hope of the school advocates is now that no point has been left by their lawyers in which a flaw can be picked to defeat the measure if a majority of the qualified voters shall poll in favor of the proposed graded school.

THE great increase of American exports over imports has become a known fact everywhere and is commented on daily by the press of this and other lands. It is one great expression of American prosperity, and one of the proofs that either Republican doctrine and the Republican administration are wise or that Republicans are the luckiest dogs alive. It has almost become an axiom that "Republican rule and good times are synonymous."

But there are countries with a different story to tell. French imports for 1898 increased $84,033,600, while the exports decreased $90,957,000. The British Board of Trade report that for the year 1899 the United Kingdom purchased foreign merchandise of the value of $2,353,020,990, an increase of $97,876,100 over the total imports of 1897. In 1898 Great Britain sold to foreign countries merchandise valued at $1,166,953,960 which was a decrease of $4,144,580 as compared with the preceding year. Great Britain is losing under free trade while the United States gains under wise protection laws.

The Peace Treaty.

The delay caused by obstructionists in Congress in the ratification of the peace treaty is a disgrace to American citizenship, and fully deserves the most severe denunciations being expressed on all sides by press and people. But in these days men are even found, who bear the name American, yet who give comfort for financial or partisan reasons to the country's enemies. The representative of the unruly Philippine insurgents, who have just now been a source of anxiety to this Government, has received comfort and advice from some traitorous person or persons who are permitted to go at large about our National Capitol and feed at the public crib.

The time is not yet past that we should be Americans.

The Democratic Stew.

Editor Enloe doesn't give the Louisville Dispatch much of a jolly in his parting salutation. In fact he rather tries to black that paper's eye in his letter of resignation. But that's the Goebel of it and Enloe and Goebel are hand in glove. Since he could not carry the Dispatch wholly for the ambitions of Goebel and himself, in leaving it he tries to sandbag what little character the paper had. There are men in this county who take the Dispatch simply from what they consider a sense of duty from their party standpoint and many of these will be found favoring the candidacy of Gen. Hardin. These men are trying, however bitter the pill may be to some of them, to be consistent in what they look upon as party fealty, in the continued support of a wrecked and splintered platform and its lost builders. And here arises a speculation. Gen Hardin made a canvass on a platform he could not endorse. Gen. Hardin traveled the State in the interest of the establishment of the Dispatch. Now Editor Enloe announces that that paper is going to destruction. He ought to know. It has been under his influence and management. Can it be that Goebel and Enloe are playing for the indirect support of more powerful journals and are dumping the Dispatch upon Gen. Hardin and his candidacy? As rats leave a decaying ship? Some philosophers advise the man who would be successful to keep the company of men and enterprises that are successful and prosperous, to keep up a continued appearance of success.

Whatever are their secret springs of action our Democratic friends are just now cooking up a most comfortable stew of squabble among themselves in State politics—comfortable for the Republicans. Well let the mess boil and bubble. The more the merrier. This is the year for Republican harmony.

Conductor's Story

A Friend Put Him on the Track to Good Health

Had Been Laid Up for Two Months with Dizzy Spells.

"I have had a stomach trouble for the past three years and last winter I was so that I could not work for two months. I would have dizzy spells when I could not get out of bed, and when I was lying down it seemed as though there was a hard lump in my stomach. The medicines given me afforded relief only for a time. A friend advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and after taking six bottles I am glad to say I never felt better in my life. I do not have any dizzy spells and do not feel the lump in my stomach."

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Insist upon Hood's; take no substitute.

Hood's Pills are gentle, mild, effective. All druggists, 25c.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The First railroad district Democratic Convention will be held in Hopkinsville at 11 o'clock a. m. on Wednesday, March 8, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Railroad Commissioner. Delegates will be chosen at county mass-conventions to be held at various county seats at 2 p. m. on Saturday March 4, 1899. Basis of representation is "one delegate for every 200 votes and each fraction over 100 votes cast for Democratic electoral ticket at the presidential election in 1896."

Capt. Jno. W. Headley has entered the race for the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State. Capt. Headley says he is running at the request of many friends and hopes his previous record in that office may stand the test for official integrity.

Mr. K. J. Hampton, of Winchester, Ky., who is well known throughout the State as one of the most prominent Republicans, is spoken of as a probable candidate for the Republican nomination for Railroad Commissioner from his district.

L. O. Brumfield and James F. Rodgers, of Hopkinsville; T. B. Walker, of Ax, and Deputy Sheriff R. A. Cook are the announced candidates for representative from Christian County. Dr. Andrew Sargent, the present incumbent and John Feland are spoken of as probable candidates. The Democrats are slow about coming forward.

Besides Judge J. F. Dempsey, of Madisonville, present Railroad Commissioner in the First district, Hon. Thos. H. Corbett, of Paducah, is the only other announced aspirant for the Democratic nomination for the office.

Hon. Wm. P. Thorne, of Eminence, late State Senator, is an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor, and is out in a friendly circular letter to the press of the State, setting forth the fact.

Encounter on Account.

A personal encounter occurred on the street here Sunday between Mr. E. McLeod, an elderly Earlington citizen, who has been a merchant here for years, and Turner Yates a young farmer, of the country. From the statement made in court Monday afternoon, where Yates did not appear and was not represented, the younger man seems to have been the aggressor and it was stated he knocked the old man down more than once. The trouble was over a personal note for merchandise supplied by McLeod to Yates about the year 1891. Recently W. C. McLeod, the son, had sued on the note and on Saturday the Sheriff paid over to him the money. The elder McLeod says he did not know the money had been collected and that when he met Yates and the latter accosted him on the subject he disavowed any knowledge of the fact and tried to reason with Yates, but that the latter would not listen and assaulted him. Yates statement could not be had for the reason that he did not appear at the appointed hour for trial. Later in the day, however, Yates sent in word to the city judge wanting to submit his case, but it was then too late for the judge to take action. It seems probable that the case will go to the February term of circuit court for the settlement.

Expensive Bad Roads.

Nicholas Hoffman, of White township, Indiana county, Pa., a few days ago obtained a verdict of $875 against the township for injuries received by being thrown from his wagon on a bad piece of road. The road was seven feet wide, but large rocks projected from either side a short distance apart. In trying to avoid one of these, Hoffman drove over the other and was thrown from his wagon.

In Clair county, Snyder township will be mulcted out of over $2,000 as the result of a defective public highway. Mrs. Bessie Davis and her brothers Edward and Harry Kockler, instituted a suit against the township to recover damages for injuries sustained on a highway a short distance from Tyrone. The three were driving along the road in a carriage, when the horses plunged over an ugly embankment. The jury awarded Mrs. Davis $2,000 for the bodily injuries she sustained, and $10 to each of her brothers for the damage done to the vehicle.—Exchange.

Business Opportunities in Puerto Rico.

Where a man has capital to invest, there are many lines of business upon which he may embark with a fair assurance of the return of his money with interest.

Sugar, coffee, and tobacco raising rank first, and will open the best avenues for investors of large capital.

Fruit growing is as yet undeveloped, but the island offers many possibilities and a rich field for investors, in that every kind of tropical fruit may be cultivated to its highest perfection in the rich well-watered soil.

According to William Dinwiddie, the special correspondent of Harpers Weekly, in Puerto Rico, railroads and modern rapid-transit facilities are very much needed in the island. Don Ibo Bosch, in 1888, secured a franchise from the Spanish government to build and operate a railroad which was to encircle the island. The corporation was to be known as the Compania de las Ferrocarriles de Puerto Rico. The road was to be finished in six years and the government guaranteed eight per cent., to the corporation on the capital invested, not to exceed $10,000,000. This road was promptly begun at three points. At the end of four years, or in 1892, a single track narrow-gauge road had been laid northward and eastward from San Juan to Carolina, by way of Piedras, sixteen miles in all, and the grading had been partially completed to Rio Grande, ten miles farther, while from San Juan westward it was completed for forty-eight miles to the town of Camuy. At Aguadilla it ran southward through Anasco to Mayaguez a distance of twenty-two miles. From Ponce on the southern coast it was built to Yauco, some twenty-four miles westward, making a total mileage of one hundred and ten of the two hundred and eighty-three contracted for.

The equipment of these fragments of badly laid road would disgrace a logging or mining region in our Northwest, so mean and primitive are the cars, and so badly treated are the engines. It is not essential to discuss the defective methods existing in railroading in Puerto Rico—beyond stating that the service consists of one mixed train of two cars each way in twenty-four hours, and that the average speed is ten miles an hour—as it is rather intended to point out future needs. The corporation before referred to did not complete the road, and made no attempt to do so within the stipulated time, so the Spanish government revoked the franchise.

There are no other railroads on the island except a tramway from San Juan to Rio Piedras, which parallels the other road that far, but the equipment of this line is bad, but the service is comparatively good, as trains are run each hour, on schedule time, an hour apart. There should be a great future in the island for lighter tramway systems, such as trolley lines with trains of two or three cars, capable of making twenty miles an hour. It is not believed by the writer that in this small area there is, or ever will be, sufficient commercial inducements to warrant the construction of heavy road beds, equipped with large engines and standard rolling stock. The distributing points for both imports and exports will lie around the periphery of the island at the best water fronts, and the railroad handling will always consist of very short hauls.

A Fleishy Consumptive

Did you ever see one? Did you ever hear of one? Most certainly not. Consumption is a disease that invariably causes loss of flesh. If you are light in weight, even if your cough is only a slight one, you should certainly take Scott's Emulsion of cod liver oil with hypophosphites. No remedy is such a perfect preventive to consumption. Just the moment your throat begins to weaken and you find you are losing flesh, you should begin to take it. And no other remedy has cured so many cases of consumption. Unless you are far advanced with this disease, Scott's Emulsion will hold every inducement to you for a perfect cure.

All druggists, 50c. and $1.00. SCOTT'S EMULSION is the only one.

NEIGHS AND BRAYS OF THE "HOSS EDITOR."

"Mark from the Tombs."

The man of nags wishes to bestow a smile of welcome upon his old friend, John McLeod, of the Murray Ledger, which appreciated exchange has been remarkably scarce in this office for some time. But last week there came a paper to this office, addressed in a clear Ledger-bile hand to the "Hoss Editor." He tore off the wrapper and beheld the welcome sheet of his old friend, John Mac, who has for some time been sailing in political waters, but whose main forte hitherto has been to write pun-gent paragraphs for the Ledger. The man of nags has a dilated optic upon John and will promptly note any of his former Ledger-de-main.

That the course of true love does not run smoothly was painfully demonstrated here one cold evening not long since. The Providence train was about departing and a colored swain upon the platform was taking an affecting leave of his level best girl, who leaned out of the window to bid him adieu. He held her lovingly by the hand and ran alongside the moving train talking rapidly. Now there is a water crane at the north end of the platform and a large barrel is sunk just under the vent of the crane to receive the waste water. He mounted the edge of the barrel and landed plump into the cask of cold water, which he splashed upon the surrounding roofs. The train moved off rapidly, the crowd roared with laughter and the luckless swain extricated himself with great difficulty, his ardent affection having declined from the boiling point to several degrees below zero.

Experience keeps a dear school, but it seems that there is a certain class of people who are incapable of receiving instructions elsewhere, and Joe Henly, of this city, has just completed a thorough course at that high-priced institution. It seems that Joe secured a rig from a lively stable here and drove over to Madisonville last Saturday, where he remained several hours, until the roads became so bad that with all the caution (?) he could exercise with his improved eyesight he could not avoid wrecking the buggy. He reached the stable, however, and delivered the horse and maimed vehicle. He also delivered some language not lawful for man to utter, and which, if pertaining to anything historical, the nag man would call "profane history." Now, it happened that right in the midst of Joe's curse remarks, Haywood Bradley, a colored gallant of the town, was passing with his sweetest gal. Haywood remonstrated with Joe for using un-Sunday-school language in the presence of a lady. Joe retorted with a volley of personal remarks, sandwiched with thick slices of profanity. Haywood plucked a sledge-hammer blow upon Joe's face, who, obedient to the Scriptures, turned the other cheek to be smitten. Haywood smote the second cheek with such energy that the ground flew up and struck Joe a terrific blow on the back. Of course Joe could not whip Haywood and the earth at one and the same time, so the fight was declared a draw, by Joe drawing off his forces and quitting the contest. Later Joe faced stern-visaged justice, alias judge Cowell, and although he set up the plaintive wail, "You'd scarce expect one of my age," blind-folded justice is no respecter of persons, and can discern no difference between impetuous youth and senile age, and erring Joe was required to lubricate the wheels of justice to the extent of eight dollars in Federal money, and admonished to forsake devious paths in the future.

The talking man that ever descended upon our city appeared on the scene last week. His tongue was an actual perpetual motion, and his stock of words exceeded Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, and when urging a business deal, he would rattle off the component parts of speech faster than a flutter mill. He was an agent, not a "free moral agent," but an agent with the best of all good things to sell. He had an erasable fluid which would erase ink, fruit stains, nitrate of silver; in fact, all sorts of stains, even the "stains of sin" and the "trail of the serpent" vanished before this wondrous compound, which bore the ambiguous title of "Common-sense ink and stain obliterator." He opened his batteries of speech upon Frank Arnold, of the St. Bernard office, and in fifty-five seconds Frank made a conditional surrender. He bought three bottles of the latter day wonder, at the poor-house price of three for $1. He charmed J. R. Rash into a purchase of six bottles for twenty cents each, then he left, and the so-called process of erasure began, and the only thing that we have heard of being erased with that obliterator of common sense and ink stains, was the purchase money which the fluent agent erased from the credulous buyers. Mr. Rash, we understand, has offered to sell Arnold his entire stock at a profit of five cents per bottle. Arnold declined to buy, but closed out his stock at bankrupt figures to Howard White, the civil engineer, and Bryan Hopper, the amateur photographer. "White is having ecstatic success with the erasive compound, toning up and intensifying old and faded maps, and Hopper has gone into raptures over his phenomenal success in developing pictures with the "obliterator." Verily things are not always what they seem.

The Money Wasn't Gone.
A few days since the City Marshal was very active and so was Dr. Chatten over the apparent disappearance of a wad of money belonging to the latter. In fact the town was exercised and there was but one topic of conversation. A transient boy had been employed about the house for some weeks. One night he left between suns under peculiar circumstances and without saying goodbye. A roll of money which the doctor had about the house from recent collections was away from his hiding place. These two things put together read a theft and an escape. Telegrams were sent up and down the road and from both directions came replies from conductors who had put off their train parties answering description. The track had gotten warm when the aggravating roll of money turned up in an unexpected place in the doctor's house and spoiled the whole story. Somebody had moved the unsuspicious receptacle of the troublesome greenbacks into an unusual place.

Letter from E. L. Blanks.

DOVER, TENN., Jan. 28, 1899.

EDITOR BEE,

Earlington, Ky.

DEAR SIR:—I received a copy of your paper this p. m. I was glad to read its columns once again. It makes me think of home to read about all the boys and the great mining interest in that part of the State. There are so many good people in that county, notwithstanding I am living among the very best of people in the old State of Tennessee. I like this country and the people so much. I will say I am getting along fine with my saw mill here considering the bad weather. All I need is good weather to make the dollars roll in. You will please find enclosed money order to pay for three subscribers to your paper: W. W. Lindsay, E. T. Peck, A. M. Tippit, Dover, Tenn. Yours truly,

E. L. BLANKS.

To Publish His Music.

Rev. A. M. Coenen, pastor of the Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception at this place, who originally organized the congregation more than twenty-five years ago, and has seen it grow under his care to its present large proportions, is also a great lover and student of music, as has been noticed often before by THE BEE. During the past several months, Rev. Coenen has been publishing here some of his compositions and special arrangements of church music for masses, etc., and the demand for his publications has been considerable, entailing much work. He used a mimeograph for producing the music and had the covers printed. Now, however, he has accepted an offer of a New York publisher, who will publish and handle the music.

Mr. Beard in "Pinafore."

Mr. William J. Beard, of Louisville, whom many of our readers know, and who is a son of Judge William Beard, of Madisonville, played the part of "Capt. Corcoran" in a very successful production of the opera "Pinafore" at Louisville last Friday night. Together with a few others of the cast the Louisville Post produces a very excellent picture of Mr. Beard and had this to say of his part in the opera:

Mr. Beard was a gallant Captain, and filled his uniform and the part to perfection. His solo to the moon and his part in "Things Are Not What They Seem" showed him to be the possessor of a rich, pure baritone.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer a reward of One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. PETE HERB DEAD.

High Tribute of Respect Paid His Memory by Many Friends.

Honest, popular, big-hearted Pete Herb is dead. He met a railroad man's tragic end at Henderson, Friday, January 27th, 1899. The accident occurred about 2 o'clock p. m., and little hope of his survival was entertained from the first. But he was taken to the hospital at Henderson and every possible thing done to save him to his family and his multitude of friends. The wife and children of the injured man were sent from Earlinton to Henderson on a fast freight train as quickly as possible after the accident, and reached there before the death, which occurred about 7.10 to the same evening. The manner of the accident was that Mr. Herb was walking on the track and it is said was backing off out of the way of some moving cars when he caught his foot in a frog and, being unable to extricate himself was run over, and his right leg from the knee down mangled and cut off.

The body was brought home Saturday and the funeral services and interment occurred Monday morning, January 30th. Requiem mass was held at the Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception at eight o'clock Monday morning, by Rev. A. M. Coenen. The church was filled with friends of the deceased, many of whom were his associates on the railroad and many from abroad. The services were impressive and the priest paid high tributes, well deserved, to the character of the deceased. Pete Herb had been an honest, big hearted man, always ready to answer the call of duty and earnest in its discharge. His time and labor had ever been freely given to the church; he was always ready to assist the needy and had done much thus in a quiet way, not letting his left hand know what his right hand did. He was a devout Catholic, regular in attendance on the services of the church; he was everybody's friend and everybody spoke well of him; he was what he was, honest, frank, open, unselfish.

Mr. Luther Gowen, a brother-in-law of the deceased, from Evansville, with his wife, was with the bereaved family. Among the friends from abroad who attended the funeral services were Mr. and Mrs. Emil Braun, A. Lunsford and wife, Miss Martin, Miss Hanna, John F. Fischer, George Riepe, M. B. Ray, Frank Todd, John Long, Mike Hanna and Sam Powers, of Madisonville; Pat Plair, of Mortons Gap; Conductor Joe Burch, Engineer Warner Campbell and others.

The pall bearers were L. H. O'Brien, James R. Rash, W. D. Caviness, Frank Bramwell, N. W. Huff, and George Riepe, of Madisonville. Mr. Herb was one of the oldest conductors, in term of service, on the Louisville and Nashville system. He had made his home in Earlinton and handled trains on the Henderson division for the past ten years and had to his credit a long term of service on the St. Louis division. He was one of the most trusted employees on the road. His wife and six children, all boys, survive him. Two of the boys are old enough to contribute to the family's support and are also employed by the railroad. Mr. Herb was a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen and the Catholic Knights of America in each of which organizations he carried insurance policies of $2000. He had no accident insurance at the time of his death.

Wonderful Discovery.
LUNSFORD, ALA., April 15, 1898. New Spencer Medicine Co. Dear Sirs—I have been troubled with liver and stomach complaints. I had no appetite and my general health was very bad. I took medicine from four different doctors and they failed to do me any good. I got no relief until I began to use your valuable Nubian Tea. I used about two dollars worth of it, and it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have gained thirty-five pounds in weight and my health is very good. I can sleep soundly and my appetite is excellent. I can recommend Planter's Nubian Tea to the world as being a God-send to any community. Any one who doubts this statement can write to OSCAR BAKER, Sold by St. Bernard Drug Store.

Story of a Slave.
To be bound hand and foot for years by the claims of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, indigestion, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle work medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

DOWN IN THE MINES.

"Miners should also remember that the success of officials depends largely upon their own action. For this reason we wish to point out to them the advantages they will derive if they give the officers the support necessary in the work of organizing the district. Again in the Kentucky field there are many obstacles in the way that tend to retard the progress of organization that is not met with in other states simply because they are better equipped to meet the issues that confront them."

In some localities miners are governed by the same power that the negro was on the plantation field. Their master has a wonderful influence over them and it is hard to convince these poor creatures that they have any being other than that which they believe is invested in their owner to give or take away at will. You may call it superstition if you like, but the fact remains that they are willing slaves, suffering under advanced stages of hypnotism, and can only be liberated from this unnatural life by a determination equal to an emergency that requires an application of extreme measures to meet one of the most extreme cases of modern times."

To the above article clipped from the U. M. W. Journal and written for that paper by their correspondent, Cris Evans, then at Central City, we desire to call the attention of the miners of this county, especially to that part which refers to them as slaves. Now, which is the slave, the man who can work the year around for good wages, free to act as his best judgment would direct, or he who is the tool of an organization, that says you must work according to their laws, even if the mines shut down and starvation faces you? Are you a slave because you are given higher wages than the miner who has sold out his independent right to a so-called labor organization and now works at less wages than you receive?

Who is the poor creature whose master has a wonderful influence over him? The miner who takes the advice of the men, who by the investment of their thousands have proven themselves to be the benefactors of the laboring man, thereby enabling them to make a good honest living besides buying a home, or the men who act as advised by a hired tool who can give them neither work nor relief in time of distress? Who are the superstitious or followers after false gods? The men who follow after labor agitators that seek alone their own aggrandizement and whose stock in trade consists of promises they have no means to fulfill, or the miners who work for operators that promise good wages and steady work, and possess the power to perform that agreement. You will see that Cris Evans had neither the manhood nor courage to mention the name of the men he sought in this article to slander and vilify, but referred in general to those who thus far refused to be led or dictated to by his blind leadership.

Superintendent Salmon, of the Crabtree Mines, was over last Saturday and Sunday on a visit to relatives. He reports work good and a scarcity of coal cars.

That was indeed a costly lump of coal to the L. & N. Railroad Company, that fell from a passing engine, striking a section foreman, causing his death, for which judgment in the sum of $5,000 was returned against the company.

The Arnold mine is fast being put in good shape by a night and day crew and a little Sunday work thrown in, and the output of coal is daily increasing.

A break down of some machinery caused the Hecla Company to shut down last Saturday, but the damage was soon repaired and work resumed again.

Secretary George C. Atkinson has been as "job" of old the last week—a sufferer from boils, but whether or not he has borne up under the affliction as patiently as our ancient brother we are unable to say.

About half the shipment of coke by the St. Bernard Coal Company the past week was taken from the stock coke pile, and if the good work goes on a full summer run at the coke works is assured.

Superintendent Crutchfield's report of the work done at the St. Charles mine shows an increase over that of December, and to aid in a further increase at that mine, several more mining machines are soon to be added.

The Reinecke Coal Company has been doing a fine business for several months, the average daily output being twenty-five cars.

President Atkinson, of the St. Bernard, was called to Lebanon last week as an important witness in a case against the L. & N. Railroad Company.

Secretary Anderson, of the Monarch Coal Company, says the demand for that coal this winter has been far greater than the supply.

Pat Blair, of the South Diamond mine, was a caller in the city the past week, and as he has to look after the mule part of the power used in the mine for hauling out coal, he says the stock are worked very hard, so rushing have been the coal orders.

The miner recently shot by a neighbor at the Monarch mine is still alive, and will probably recover.

The shooting of the colored miner at the Monarch mine sometime ago caused some trouble between the company and the colored miners. It was soon adjusted, however, by taking the neighbors off who did the shooting and placing another man in charge of the scales.

About seven thousand dollars in cash were paid out by the St. Bernard Coal Company to their employees this month, besides the thousands given them in goods at a fair price. Yet Cris Evans, the agitator, would have you believe they are a lot of slaves working for nothing.

Incorporation articles have been filed by the Beaver Coal Company, of Beaver, Muhlenberg County. The capital stock of the company, which proposes to operate a coal mine, is fixed at $25,000. The incorporators are George and J. Givens and G. M. Burton.

VALUABLE RELIC.

Key From Morro Castle Captured by a Tourist.

Sent to Mr. J. B. Atkinson and Will be Placed in Public Library.

A heavy iron cell-key from Morro castle, Havana, Cuba, is the latest valuable relic to be added to the Earlinton Public Library Museum. It is a bonafide Morro Castle key and was captured on January 3, Mr. W. H. Howe, of Nashville, Tenn., who traveled to Havana to see the stars and stripes take possession officially of the city and the island. The key was sent to Mr. John B. Atkinson and will be placed by him in the Museum where it can be seen by the public. No more valuable or interesting relic could be had from the famous castle of Spanish dungeons and Spanish violence, and none around which the mind could weave more tragic and murderous imaginings of oppression and outrage. One can easily imagine that this massive key has gotten its rust in the blood of liberty's martyrs, and a glamour of unusual interest will linger about this relic of Spanish rule and Spanish ruin.

DANGER IN CALCIUM CARBIDE.

Rules Governing Its Sale in New York—Liquefied Acetylene Gas Prohibited.
Superintendent Murray of the Bureau of Combustibles, has made regulations governing the transportation, storage and sale of calcium carbide, which the firemen declare to be a source of danger in a burning building, because when water reaches it acetylene gas is given off. A number of stores keep it in use for storage lamps. Hereafter, in transit or on bicycle it must be inclosed in hermetically sealed iron receptacles marked, "Dangerous, if not kept dry." No package can contain more than 100 pounds. It must be stored in isolated buildings that are fire proof and waterproof. No artificial light or heat will be permitted in the building where it is stored. Not more than twenty pounds in bulk or in cartridges, may be kept in any store or factory, and this must be in a fireproof safe or vault above the street grade, and it must be kept six inches above the floor.

The manufacture, transportation, storage, sale or use of liquefied acetylene is absolutely prohibited within the limits of this city.—N. T. Sun.
